

We are a specialist native New Zealand plant nursery based in Dunedin and have been operating for about 30 years. Our aim is to grow a wide range of high quality natives including ferns, ground cover plants, shelter and screening shrubs and large growing specimen or forest trees.

Our plants are grown in Dunedin for Otago conditions and include plants for very exposed coastal sites, stunning architectural plants for the home garden, plants to encourage native birds such as tui, bellbirds and kereru, plants for forest or wetland revegetation projects and species that will survive the climatic extremes of Central Otago.

Our staff have a wealth of native plant knowledge and can help you choose the right plants for any planting project, large or small.
